Doug: it's engage.4thbranchnc.org
<http://4thbranchnc.org> is the base site.
(Don't know who owns the "non-nc" domain)

Doug/Ric,

My intent was to share the work that has been done to date by Ric and 4th Branch with our Council group on Saturday. It's an important work in progress. So Ric...if I didn't give Doug the right information so he could bring up those links...would you please get us straight. As I mentioned to Ric, we were coming back from Philly International Airport during the teleconference the other day and I was having a hard time hearing everything so perhaps I missed the most correct instructions.

Many thanks and I do apologize for not getting the instructions correctly forwarded. JG

Jeri,

I'm not certain what you want done with this info...in the case of the engage.4thbranch.org, that only brings up a graphic...no links. As for the Lost Province site, Ric has provided several different ideas concerning the site; are these being considered, or is the Engage link on the website already active?

Please let me know how you wish to use this info.

Doug

Doug,

I did call Ric as yesterday, I was attending the teleconference from the car on my cell phone and couldn't quite hear some details.

try these:

engage.4thbranch.org demo site which is now getting established using template from Engage

<http://lostprovince.net/4thbranch/>

hope this helps....I can explain if you can pull it up
